QUOTE OF THE WEEK

“Pray, hope, and don't worry. Worry is useless. God is merciful and will hear your prayer.” St. Padre Pio

FEAST OF THE WEEK – September 24th

Feast of Our Lady of Mercy – is the Marian Feast celebrated only by the Roman Catholic Church on September 24th each year. The Feast has its rudimentary origins dating back to the 8th to 15th Centuries. During the early to late Middle Ages, Europe was in a state of almost constant upheaval and intermittent warfare between the Christian kingdoms of Southern Europe and Muslim believers in North Africa. Many coastal towns and cities were under threat of pirate raids by Muslims seeking bounty, both in material and human form. Many Christians were taken captive and sold into slavery. In 1198, Sts. John of Matha and Felix of Valios, in Southern France, established the Order of the Most Holy Trinity (Trinitarians), most of whom were secular knights and sailors with some clerics that guarded the coastline against such piracy and entered into dangerous negotiations with pirates encountered holding Christians as captives. In 1218, St. Peter Nolasco in Barcelona, Spain was also inspired by a vision of the Virgin Mary requesting him to rescue captives and sought to start a religious order called the Order of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mercy (Mercedarians). This Order was comprised of clerics and nuns, who in addition to taking the traditional vows of chastity, obedience and poverty, took a fourth vow of life in slavery or death in exchange for the spared life of an enslaved Christian. The feast known as the Feast of Our Lady of Ransom resulted from the activities of the Mercedarians. The Mercedarians begged alms to fund the purchase of Christians held in bondage. The iconography of Our Lady of Ransom depicts the Blessed Virgin with outstretched arms; in one hand, holding a scapular as patroness of the Order, and in the other, two bags of coins for the rescue of Christians. Following Vatican II, the name of the feast was changed to its present depiction of Our Lady of Mercy. Patron of the cities of Barcelona and Mercedes, Catbalogan, Philippines.
